Women May Help To Guard Crossings Near Schools Here

Plan Suggested by Sup't Snyder to Police Committee of Boro' Council

If a proposed plan of superintendent of Bristol schools, Warren P. Snyder, reaches fruition, women may be included in a group which might possibly guard street crossings near Bristol school buildings.

Word is awaited from the police committee of Bristol borough council which has been requested to work with the school board on developing a plan to protect crossings during the periods, when children are enroute to or from classes.

The thought is that women and possibly some retired men might be enlisted for this work, those who desire part-time employment.

In a number of areas, some in Bucks County, women are serving as crossing guards, thus helping to protect lives of the young folks.

"The plan in mind," states Superintendent Snyder, "is that crossings within about one block areas of the schools of Bristol (both public and parochial) be so protected". The plan for protecting the crossings near the school buildings resulted from the fact that children have school and many other things to discuss together when they leave or enter the buildings in groups, "then when they get farther than that from the building they 'fan out'".

The request made by the superintendent of schools was that the police committee work with the school board on developing a plan to protect pupils at crossings.

Levittown in The Dark On Lakeside Lights

Levittown Incorporation To Be Basis of Study

LEVITTOWN. Dec. 10—Who's going to turn on the street lights in the Tullytown sector of Lakeside?

One hundred units on 14 Lakeside streets are installed and "all ready to go on whenever the Phila. Electric Co. is ready," according to Nicholas M. Eberle, president of Tullytown Borough Council. He said the borough has signed a contract with the electric company for the lights to operate. The Falls township section of Lakeside is also unlit.

A Phila. Electric Co. spokesman, however, said Saturday that an announcement of lighting up the 14 dark streets would have to be made by Levitt & Sons, Inc.

Yesterday, a Levitt & Sons representative said the illumination of Tullytown's portion of Lakeside is entirely up to the borough and the electric company.

It was agreed at the meeting that the agencies will outline the scope, depth, and method of procedure of the study required.

Bristol township will invite the other municipalities involved to participate in the survey, said George Sotzing, president of the commissioners.

He said that after the preliminary study is made Falls and Middle townships, and Tullytown will be invited to cooperate in the survey which according to Perry will encompass questions of what would happen to existing communities if Levittown detached itself.

Branch Post Office To Be in New Building

Levittown Quarters Will Occupy Space in New Shopping Unit

LEVITTOWN, Dec. 10—Pinewood homeowners don't want the courts to move Falls twp. out from under them.

Fourteen residents of Pinewood section last night decided to consult an attorney on the possibility of filing exceptions to a Levittown boundary change now pending in Bucks County Quarter Sessions Court.

The building is now under construction, west of the Penn Fruit-Sunray Drugs unit. The postal branch will occupy 1584 square feet of floor space, Mulligan said, sharing the unit with a Sears Roebuck & Co. store.

The new post office building will immediately provide stamp and parcel post service, registered mail, and money orders, Mulligan said. Other postal services will be considered as the demand develops in Levittown, the postmaster said.

Mulligan also announced the appointment of Hugh J. Dugan as superintendent of the Levittown Branch, which now operates in the former Baker house on the south side of Route 13. Dugan has been a clerk and postal carrier with the Bristol Post Office for several years.

The new branch supervisor succeeds William J. Murray, who operated the Levittown branch since it was opened in September. Murray has filled a supervisory position recently authorized for the Bristol Post Office, an clerk in charge.

Establishment of the position by federal postal authorities resulted from the current increase in business in the Bristol post office.

The Bristol post office this week was meeting the start of the Christmas rush, which is expected to produce the greatest volume of mail on record.

Mulligan said ten extra men have been hired for temporary duty, and several more will soon be engaged.

A. J. Berdis Speaks at Bucks Co. Industrial Management Club Dinner

EDGELY, Dec. 10 — Two hundred members and guests attended Bucks County Industrial Management Club dinner meeting last evening to hear Dr. Albert J. Berdis, general superintendent of Fairless Works, U. S. Steel Co., speak. Fred Hermann, vice-president, presided in the absence of the president, William Lloyd. Meeting and dinner were held in Edgely community house. The Rev. Robert Thomson, pastor of Pilgrim Presbyterian Church, gave the invocation.

Mr. Hermann in his welcome said: "The December meeting of the club, which is affiliated with the local Y. M. C. A., is traditionally service club night, and it gives me great pleasure to welcome representatives of Bristol Rotary Club, Bensalem Rotary Club, Bristol Lions Club, Fallsington Lions Club, Bristol Exchange Club, and representatives of U. S. Steel."

Group singing was led by Charles Rathke, and Bristol high school band played under direction of Kenneth Bachman.

Albert Gechey, superintendent of training at Fairless Works, said: "The U. S. Steel, at the Fairless Works, is building the finest plant in the country and is putting the finest equipment possible into it. To match this, the best men possible in the steel industry had to be found who would be capable of performing duties required to operate the steel mill. The man who heads this plant—who knows what he wants, and how to get it, is your speaker, Dr. Albert J. Berdis, general superintendent."

Dr. Berdis said: "I am honored to have been asked to come here this evening and address a group of men who, like myself, have a compelling personal interest in the management of industry which is situated here about us in Bucks county. I am a relative newcomer in your midst—a new neighbor and as such I am deeply appreciative of your hospitality."

"There are many things at Fairless I could talk about. Since the majority of you have read or heard most of the pertinent facts about the physical facilities of our new integrated steel plant, it occurred to me that it might be interesting if I described to you some of the things we are doing to develop our management organization and the personnel who will operate the Fairless Works. Not only are we starting from scratch to build the largest integrated steel plant ever constructed at one time, but we have started from scratch to a permanent location for the Society's branch can be found."

"The branch is ready to begin operations on a full scale basis," said Mrs. Mildred E. Stowe, executive director of the Society.

Present at the opening session yesterday were Dr. Piersol, Frank Fuccio, physical therapist; Robert Furuno, social worker for the center; John Cocco; and Miss Mary T. Durkin director of treatment centers for the Society.

A mother of three small children showed presence of mind this morning when a fire was discovered beneath a kerosene stove. When one youngster remarked "Look, Mommy, the stove is on fire," Mrs. William George, Jr., of Court A, Bristol Terrace II, opened the door, put the tots outside, then ran across the street to secure ashes in front of a neighbor's house. CHRISTMAS CARDS

Christmas cards now on display in all shops and stores are a hint that the holidays are not far away. These colorful cards provide a sentimental bond between Yuletide celebrations of the past and the present.

To moderns their arrival means the holly-and-poinsettia season has again arrived. Their sparkling, story-telling designs piece together a saga of Christmas through the ages.

Holiday parties pictured on many cards in gay colors, were actually started as "open house" over 1,000 years ago. The Saxon lords of Germany, after being converted to Christianity, opened their great halls to peasants and nobles alike at Christmas time. Together they feasted, sang, and exchanged gifts until the last embers of a huge Yule log flickered away.

Among the many religious designs are various reproductions of the Magi who brought gold, frankincense, and myrrh to the Babe of Bethlehem, beginning the custom of gift-giving at Yuletide.

Gold was offered to acknowledge the Holy Child's supreme reign over the world. Frankincense was a symbol of the worship due Him, and the bitter-sweet scent of the myrrh was a prophecy of sadness.

Holly, mistletoe, and poinsettia are perennial favorites with Christmas card designers. Yet little is known about their origin.

Holly wreaths are a symbol of the Crucifixion. It is said that when the crown of thorns was made from its branches, the then-white berries turned red.

Mistletoe was called "allheal" by the early Britons and it was thought there would be no sickness in homes where it was hung.

Poinsettia in its native Mexico is called "Flower of the Nativity." Legend says it was once a weed. Plucked from the roadside by a little waif who had no other gift for her cathedral, a scarlet radiance swept over the flower as she laid it before the altar.

Christmas tree scenes are as popular as ever. A widespread tale that all trees blossom with flowers and ripe fruits on the night of the Nativity inspired the modern custom of decorating the Christmas tree. This story was first told by an Arabian geographer, back in the tenth century.

Some cards this year are in the form of a Christmas card booklet, with words and music of a different carol on each page. Others are illustrated with colorful choral groups gathered on street corners or in churches.

Of course no panorama of Christmas cards is complete without the thousands which portray Santa Claus. These rank among the 10 most popular designs each year.

The first typical Christmas cards were published 110 years ago, and the custom of wishing loved ones a good, old-fashioned "Merry Christmas" grows with the passing years.

of St. Paul's, with more than 55 men and boys present.

Walter Fagan, director of the senior chapter welcomed the group and the Rev. Stanley A. Powell, Jr., presented John Merritt, president of Penna. Assembly of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew. Mr. Merritt talked about the importance of prayer.

The men went into the Church and the Junior Brotherhood marched into the church led by the cross and processional torches and carrying the American flag, the Episcopal Church flag and the banner of the Brotherhood.

The vicar officiated at a brief service of evensong and George Willauer, layreader, read the lesson. The Rev. A. Whisler addressed the group, suggesting ways in which they might follow the example of St. Andrew.

Solemn induction of boys into the Junior Brotherhood followed. Gustave Kaechelin, director of the chapter, presented the boys: David Jones, William Chase, Richard Bomaham and Ronald Banton, Edgely; Peter Ganes, Robin Flarelli, and Roland James, Levittown. Each received the brotherhood medallion and pin.

The vicar inducted the following into the Order of the Green Lanyard, representing an accumulation of 100 merit points: Roland Lynn, "Tommy" Kaechelin, Francis Lavaty, "Jimmy" Lynn, Norman Lynn

CHRISTMAS CARDS

Christmas cards now on display in all shops and stores are a hint that the holidays are not far away. These colorful cards provide a sentimental bond between Yuletide celebrations of the past and the present.

To moderns their arrival means the holly-and-poinsettia season has again arrived. Their sparkling, story-telling designs piece together a saga of Christmas through the ages.

Holiday parties pictured on many cards in gay colors, were actually started as "open house" over 1,000 years ago. The Saxon lords of Germany, after being converted to Christianity, opened their great halls to peasants and nobles alike at Christmas time. Together they feasted, sang, and exchanged gifts until the last embers of a huge Yule log flickered away.

Among the many religious designs are various reproductions of the Magi who brought gold, frankincense, and myrrh to the Babe of Bethlehem, beginning the custom of gift-giving at Yuletide.

Gold was offered to acknowledge the Holy Child's supreme reign over the world. Frankincense was a symbol of the worship due Him, and the bitter-sweet scent of the myrrh was a prophecy of sadness.

Holly, mistletoe, and poinsettia are perennial favorites with Christmas card designers. Yet little is known about their origin.

Holly wreaths are a symbol of the Crucifixion. It is said that when the crown of thorns was made from its branches, the then-white berries turned red.

Mistletoe was called "allheal" by the early Britons and it was thought there would be no sickness in homes where it was hung.

Poinsettia in its native Mexico is called "Flower of the Nativity." Legend says it was once a weed. Plucked from the roadside by a little waif who had no other gift for her cathedral, a scarlet radiance swept over the flower as she laid it before the altar.

Reynolds announced last night that Paul R. Becker, president of the Levittown Civic Association and a Bristol attorney had examined the court's report on the proposed boundary change. Reynolds said he also went to Doylestown himself to see the records.

The original petition, Reynolds said, was filed June 2 by the governing officials of Falls and Bristol twps. and Tullytown borough, the school boards of the three municipalities, Levitt & Sons, Inc., and three farmers. The petitioners met in Edgely Fire Hall to request the change. Reynolds said, which was asked "for the convenience of the people."

Reasons given by the petitioners for the change were: so that no Levittown child would have to cross through streets to go to school, to save $45,000 a year in school bus transportation and to provide adequate police protection.

The Pinewood residents last night opposed changing their neighborhood from Falls to Bristol twp. on the grounds that they were not properly consulted or advised of the petition. They said when they purchased their homes they were told they would live in Falls twp.

They appeared to favor Falls twp. schools over those of Bristol twp., and said the change of school districts would lower the value of their properties.

Attending last night's meeting, besides Reynolds and Millard, were Walter Palm, 15 Palm lane; Arthur Kentzler, 39 Lakeside dr.; William Page, 31 Pensive lane; Joseph Welsh, 27 Pensive lane; Samuel Dulaney, 128 Pinewood dr.; Mrs.

Norma Shaw, 59 Pensive lane; Martin Gavin, 54 Peartree lane and Art Wittmeyer, 41 Pensive lane.

Fairless Management

side of the steel industry. They are the cream of the crop.

At the present time we have about three-fourths of our managerial help on the job. If you were to meet our average supervisor, it's quite possible that you would be surprised. He is a young man, only 32 years old, yet he has had 12 years experience. Despite this he attended college for a little over two years. He's married and has 16 children. He owns his own home, belongs to a civic organization and somehow finds time for a hobby. We have mixed the old with the young. Those of us who have been privileged to have been selected for our respective responsibilities at the Fairless Works feel that we are on the threshold of opportunity unlimited. It affords the finest possible experience in the operation of the world's most modern steel plant. It naturally follows that it is our organization that other plants will look to in the future for selection of people to fill some of the most important operating jobs in our country.

"It would be unrealistic for us to expect that, however willing and conscientious our people might be, perfect teamwork could be obtained without a substantial amount of coaching, training, and practice. For this reason we have set up what we believe to be one of the most extensive management training courses ever established in industry, so that all of them will play the game under the same set of rules. And so all of our management people have been going to school, where they have been given a very practical course in the economics of our business.

"Our training program is broken down into several component parts. First is the top management course given to all members from division superintendents down through general foremen. Second is the supervisory training course for members of our management, beginning with line foremen up to the level of general foremen. A third and special course has been designed for management candidates. Still another training program has been developed for production employees, or wage earners, who will be recruited largely from this area and trained in the numerous skills employed in the many aspects of steel making and finishing. With the men we have selected for our management and with the high caliber people we are finding in this community, these training programs cannot help but provide Fairless Works with a total organization to which any man would be proud to belong. Seldom in our experience have we found such a high standard of personnel available as we have here in your midst.

"I would like to make it clear, that we do not intend to deprive our neighboring industries of key people in their organizations without their express permission. Our personnel people have made it a practice to check with employers of our applicants to find out if the individual applying to us is available; if his present employer is willing to release him. We do not intend to pirate labor. On the basis that we have received some 24,000 applications for the 4,200 jobs open, we feel that it will be possible for us to get our fair share of labor without exercising a hardship on our neighbors.

"We have been asked if we intend to employ colored workers. It is contrary to the employment policies of U. S. Steel to discriminate against race or creed. Every applicant is considered upon his aptitude for the job and his mental and physical fitness. While man is an unknown factor, we do know that he fails to reach his potential if he is frustrated through improper job placement, or if he has no hope for advancement. Therefore the more appropriately a man is placed in his work the more likely he is to become an efficient member of the industrial team and a worthwhile citizen of his community.

"Great importance to the employee and management is his day-to-day health. A well-planned comprehensive medical program within the plant is essential to the maintenance, the capacity, efficiency and safety of all employees.

"We encourage the worker to adopt a wholesome respect for safe methods of performance on the job and around the plant.

"Perhaps the most tangible element of motivation anywhere in our economy is the element of money—financial remuneration for services rendered. The rates of pay at the steel plant are about the same as the prevailing rates of other industry in the area. Another important factor is to see that the employees are paid properly and that any errors which may unintentionally occur in the payroll procedure are corrected promptly and cheerfully.

"The development of our organization, establishment of our operating procedures, have now reached the point that we will begin the production of coke, iron, and steel at this fully integrated steel plant within a matter of days. Thus with this milestone we in this area are blessed with all the things to make it the greatest industrial area in the country. We should keep our feet on the ground as new industry comes in and help provide them with the type employee we want them to have, and we all will benefit by all the industry that will come into this area."

In closing, Dr. Berdis stated that "within the week the official starting of operations will be witnessed by members of the corporation at the Fairless Works. With this step forward in our plant we are looking forward to a long and pleasant relationship with our new neighbors in the Delaware Valley and assure you that we will do our utmost as a good and responsible citizen of this community to warrant your regard."

If your youngster hates washing his face, give him one of your husband's old shaving brushes and let him play at working up a soapy lather just like Dad.

Prone to leave the God I love.

The result of this restoration is that we are led in "the paths of righteousness for His Name's sake". What guidance! I will never leave thee nor forsake thee.

The wandering sheep who strayed and were restored, now need correction. By His excellent grace He does this, it is by grace He guides us. Psalm 23:3
"He restoreth my soul". What assurance! The song writer wrote:

Prone to wander, Lord I feel it, Prone to leave, God I love.

Blessed be God, though, the Shepherd does restore our soul. What mercy!

The result of this restoration is that we are led in "the paths of righteousness for His Name's sake". What guidance! I will never leave thee nor forsake thee.

The wandering sheep who strayed and were restored, now need correction. By His excellent grace He does this, it is by grace He saved us and it is by grace He guides us. Have you yielded completely to Him so that you are being led in paths of righteousness? Can you say with the Psalmist, "Search me, O Lord, and try me; and see if there by any wicked way in me; and lead me in the way everlasting?"

Bristol High Opens Cage Season With An Impressive Win

Bristol High inaugurated its 1952-53 cage season last night with a very impressive 57-46 win over Bordentown High on the local court. The courtiers of Coach Ben Watson dominated the game practically all the way except for one-half of the second session.

Pacing the Bristol scorers was Bob Stroble who rung the loop for 11 double-deckers and six fouls for 8 points. Stroble was shut out from the floor in the final quarter. Bristol did fine shooting in the first half when it basketed 40 per cent of its shots.

High man for the Jersey team was Billy McCay who hit the cords for 19 points. It was McCay's shooting in the early portion of the second period that put the Bordentown team back into the game and enabled it to take a temporary lead.

Bristol jumped into the lead early in the game, scoring six points before Bordentown converted a foul. Stroble and Harold Loud scored twin-pointers with Frank Manzo and Jack Bowe dunking in fouls to make it 6-6 after three minutes had elapsed. Sam Johnson made the first point for Bordentown. Loud increased the lead to 8-1 while Hudson's foul made it 8-2. Cramer cut the Warriors' lead two more points but on a fine play, Bob Braker to Stroble, the latter scored, making it 10-4. But McCay scored two goals in quick order to cut the lead to 10-8. Bowe's fielder made it 12-8. Johnson dropped in a foul and Cramer a two-pointer to shave the lead to 12-11. Stroble lifted it to 14-11 with a side shot but before the quarter ended, Magowen scored a double-decker and Cramer a foul to knot the count at 14-14.

Bordentown enjoyed the lead on several occasions as the game seesawed at the start of the second quarter. Magowen's foul put the Jersey team in front, 15-14, but Stroble put the Warriors ahead with a fielder. McCay's side shot gave Bordentown a one-point lead, 17-16, but again Stroble gave Bristol the edge with a field goal, 18-17. McCay's fielder from a bad angle put Bordentown ahead, 19-18, but Stroble stepped into the picture to wrest the lead, 20-19. McDonald's conversion deadlocked the count at 20. Swanson's foul put the Jerseyites in front, 21-20. Hudson made 22-20 but on a jump shot, Stroble knotted the score at 22. From then on it was all Bristol. Stroble scored twice from the floor and Loud also dropped in a fielder to raise the half-time score to 28-22.

Bristol was at its best in the third quarter. After McCay reduced the lead to two points, Stroble and Braker made double-deckers to Coach Watson's team. McCay scored twice for Bordentown to clip the score to 34-30. Stroble and McDonald had fouls for their team. Loud, Stroble and Braker scored three field goals for Bristol with Manzo getting two assists. The count was now 41-31. After Johnson scored for the visitors, Braker retaliated for Bristol. The score at the end of the third period was 43-33.

Manzo scored to start the finale. He dribbled past two players to make the shot. On a pass from Loud, Braker shook the nets, raising the score to 47-33. Swanson made a fielder and foul for the invaders but Manzo got two points back for Bristol. Johnson and McDonald made Bordentown fouls while Bill Marshall converted a free shot to make the count, 50-39. Braker added two to Bristol's total with Stroble's foul bringing the score to 53-39. Johnson made a Bordentown field goal while Stroble added two fouls for Bristol. Swanson's foul gave Bordentown a point but Jack Asta twisted in a fielder. McCay and Johnson scored field goals for the visiting team to make it 6-6 after three minutes had elapsed. Sam Johnson made the first point for Bordentown. Loud increased the lead to 8-1 while Hudson's foul made it 8-2. Cramer cut the Warriors' lead two more points but on a fine play, Bob Braker to Stroble, the latter scored, making it 10-4. But McCay scored two goals in quick order to cut the lead to 10-8. Bowe's fielder made it 12-8. Johnson dropped in a foul and Cramer a two-pointer to shave the lead to 12-11. Stroble lifted it to 14-11 with a side shot but before the quarter ended, Magowen scored a double-decker and Cramer a foul to knot the count at 14-14.

Bordentown enjoyed the lead on several occasions as the game see-fore the buzzer sounded, ending the game at 57-46.
